A Sunflower Grows

Nina and Omar planted sunflower seeds by the back fence. First they had to (1) _____ the thin soil so the seeds would have plenty of plant food. After five warm days the seeds began to (2) _____, and thin white roots pushed down into the ground. Then a cold night came, but the small sprouts were strong enough to (3) _____. Week by week the stem grew taller and the leaves began to (4) _____ into wide green hands. The leaves were (5) _____ on the stem, one on the left and one on the right. Soon a small green (6) _____ sat at the top like a closed fist. 'When will it (7) _____?' asked Omar every single morning. One sunny day the petals opened wide, and dark seeds started to (8) _____ in the middle. Nina took a photo and wrote a short (9) _____ under it: 'Our tall sunflower.'

What Jackie Found at the Top

At sunrise Jackie began to (1) _____ up the green stalk, hand over hand. The wet leaves were slippery, so she had to (2) _____ over them on her hands and knees. At the top stood a house with an (3) _____ door, ten times taller than her own. Everything inside was (4) _____ huge, from the forks to the footstools. A crystal (5) _____ hung over a table as long as a soccer field.

Jackie stopped to (6) _____ at the coins piled in the corner. The shine of all that gold made her (7) _____ out loud. On a velvet cushion, a golden (8) _____ played a sleepy song by itself. Jackie did not want to (9) _____, so she left a note promising to bring it back. She even wrote one line to (10) _____ for the muddy footprints on the clean floor. Then she had to (11) _____ the heavy instrument all the way to the window. Behind her, a great (12) _____ under the blanket rolled over and snored. Jackie tiptoed to the sill, ready to (13) _____ without a sound. The floor shook, and she had to (14) _____ it down the beanstalk faster than ever.
